☞ The following piece of poetry is pretty good, and will apply well to the fast driving in this place.

If a buggy meet a buggy
Coming down the street,
Is it right to run together
When these buggies meet.
Every driver has his failings,
They're but men at last,
But coming up or going down,
Should they drive so fast?

When a buggy meets a buggy
Should these buggies race?
And run over civil footmen
In a public place?
Let the driver speed like lightning
Lashing neck and flank,
But let them mind that human flesh
Ain't covered o'er with plank.

THE THRIFTLESS FARMER.

The thriftless farmer, then provides no shelter for his cattle, during the inclemency of the winter, but permits them to stand shivering by the side of a fence, or lie in the snow, as best suits them.

He throws their fodder on the ground or in the mud, and not unfrequently in the highway—by which a large portion of it and all the manure is wasted.

He grazes his meadows in fall and spring, by which they are gradually exhausted and finally ruined.

His fences are old and poor—just such as to let his neighbor's cattle break into his field and teach his own to be unruly, and spoil his crops.

He neglects to keep the manure from around the sills of his barn, if he has one, by which they are prematurely rotted, and his his barn destroyed.

He tills, or skims over the surface as his land until it is exhausted—but never thinks it worth while to manure or clover it. For the first, he has no time, for the last, he 'is not able.'

He has a place for nothing, and in its place. He consequently wants a hoe or a rake, or a hammer, or an augur, but knows not where to find them, and thus loses much time.

He loiters away stormy days and evenings, when he should be repairing his utensils, or improving his mind by reading useful books or newspapers.

He spends much time in town, at the corner of the street, or in the 'snake holes complaining of hard times,' and goes home in the evening pretty well tore.

He has no shed for his fire wood—consequently his wife is out of humor, and his meals out of season.

He plants a few fruit trees, and his cattle forthwith destroy them. He has no luck in raising fruit.

Somebody's hogs break in, and destroy his garden, because he had not stopped a hole in the fence, that he had been intending to stop for a week.

He is often in a great hurry, but will stop and talk as long as he can find any one to talk with.

He has of course, little money—and when he must raise some to pay his taxes &c. he raises it at a great sacrifice, by paying an enormous shave, or by selling his scanty crop when prices are low.

He is a year behind, instead of being a year ahead of his business—and always will be.

When he pays a debt it is at the end of an execution; consequently his credit is at a low ebb.

He buys entirely on credit, and merchants and all others with whom he deals, charge him twice or thrice the profit they charge prompt paymasters, and are unwilling to sell him goods at cost. He has to beg and promise and beg, to get them on any terms.

☞ The world is a hive that affords both sweets and poisons, with many empty combs.

A DISCOVERY.

A certain deacon in one of our Massachusetts towns, who was a very zealous advocate for the cause of temperance some years since, one hot summer day, employed a carpenter to make some alterations in his parlor. In repairing a corner of the mopsboard near the fire place, it was found necessary to remove the fireboard—when lo, a 'mare's nest' was brought to light, which astonished the workmen most marvelously. A brace of decanters, sundry junk bottles—all containing 'something to take'—a pitcher and tumblers were cosily reposing there in snug quarters. The joiner, with wonder stricken countenance, ran to the proprietor with the intelligence.

'Well I declare,' exclaimed the deacon, that is curious surely. It must be that old Captain B. left those things there when he occupied the premises, thirty years since.'

'Perhaps he did,' returned the discoverer, 'but deacon, that ice in the pitcher must have been well congealed to have remained solid so long a time.'

From the National Era.

PENNSYLVANIA.

'The State Convention, which met at Harrisburg, June 1, adopted the following resolutions—

The Free Democracy of Pennsylvania having assembled in State Convention, for the purpose of perfecting their organization and making nominations for State officers, feel it incumbent upon them to make a public declaration of the principles they propose to advocate, and the work they propose to accomplish; Therefore,

Resolved, That all men are born free and equal, and are endowed by their Creator with an inalienable and indefeasible right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, hence Slavery is a sin against God and a crime against man.

Resolved, That it is the mission of the Free Democracy to secure to all the enjoyment of their inalienable rights, by the impartial application to public affairs, of the principles contained in the Declaration of Independence, which require equality in rights and strict justice to all.

Resolved, That as Slavery is aggressive, and can only live by continued encroachments upon free territory, it becomes the duty and imperative necessity of the laboring classes in this country to work earnestly with the Free Democracy to arrest its further spread; for the same despotism that places its foot upon the neck of the black man, will when its interest dictates, attempt to reduce the white laborer to a condition like that of the slave: and it becomes an act of self defence to himself, and a duty to his prosperity, to relieve them of so dangerous and evil a burden.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States, ordained to form a more perfect union, to establish justice and secure the blessings of liberty, expressly denies to the General Government all power to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law—and therefore the Government, having no more power to make a slave than to make a king, and no more power to establish Slavery than to establish Monarchy, should at once proceed to relieve itself from all responsibility for the existence of Slavery, wherever it possesses constitutional power to legislate for its extinction."

The Free Democracy is still for war: 'Wonder if peace would not suit them best, they lay claim to the character of christians, but 'the tree is known by the fruit.' They have the old story that 'slavery is a sin against God, and a crime against man,' then punish crime by law, and as to sin, leave that to be settled between themselves and their God. We should like to know at what time the Almighty surrendered His Exclusive Power to pardon sinners, or pass sentence upon them.

There is a man living in the backwoods who, being invited to a New Year's dinner, ate so much bear's meat, that he went home and hugged his wife, a thing he had never been guilty of before.

"Communication from the Post Office at Helena, A. T.

TO THE EDITOR,

'Sir, Will you be pleased to give this communication a place in your next paper.

New York, February 16, 1834.

Dear Sir,

By return of mail you will confer a favor by sending to us the names of the Ministers of the Gospel of different denominations, Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, and the names of several influential, public spirited and benevolent persons, that we may transmit to your office, for each name you furnish us, one number of a paper containing a circular we wish to send through the State,

Very respectfully yours,
J. N. BOLLES,
J. A. WHITEMARSH,
J. L. BURROWS,

To Messrs Bolles, Whitemarsh, Burrows,

GENTLEMEN; I have viewed and reviewed, considered, and re-considered the above card, and for the soul of me I cannot determine what it really means, nor what can be your object. If you are in reality cross-bearing Christians according to your intimation—determined to make every thing subservient to your notions of the Christians duties of man—then are you the more to be feared, inasmuch as you are aiming at such a long pull, strong pull, and to pull the 'Ministers of the Gospel of different denominations, Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, and several influential, public spirited and benevolent persons,' all together. Let me ask you in candor, Do you really mean to send through the United States—for you know we are here in a Territorial form of government—a paper containing a CIRCULAR! What does that Circular contain gentlemen, that you wish to send through the United States? It may be some pious treason, for aught I know, and to be candid with you, I feel confident that it is an attempt to subvert our Religious Liberty: Is it not an appeal to fanaticism, to rally everywhere and take us by surprise. To me it has that appearance. Only look at it! You wish the Post Masters every where to send you the names of 'the Ministers of the Gospel of different Denominations.'

Nothing in the world gentlemen, is wanting in that member of the sentence but the definite article, which I make no doubt you intend to have understood, for it is not by any means bad grammar as it stands. Let me, supply it and then see how it will read. 'You will confer a favor by sending to us the names of the Ministers of the Gospel of THE different denominations.' This, gentlemen, you see, sweeps all before it. Then it is the names of the Ministers of all the denominations, yea, and the Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, influential, public spirited and benevolent persons of all the denominations that you wish me to send you the names of.

'Gentlemen, it seems to me that if you had fully considered what you were doing, you would not have sent such a card to the Post Masters, as it is reasonable to presume you have done throughout the United States. The Post Offices were increased at a ratio of about 362 in the four years ending 31st Dec. 1830. Take that for the ratio and add thrice 362 which is 1086 to 8450, which was the aggregate at that time, and we should have had 9536 Post Offices for you to send the above card to. For the sake of doing your pious treason full justice, say that 1536 of these offices were so remote that you did not think fit to send your card to the 'P. M.s' at them, still there are 8000 to whom it is reasonable to presume that you have sent the card. The postage on them cannot amount to less than 20 cents on an average, which makes the sum of one thousand six hundred dollars! Look at it gentlemen. One thousand six hundred dollars you have defrauded the Government out of in your attempt to subvert our Religious Liberty, and in all probability, to unite the Church and State.

Gentlemen, look at this matter—the American people are not prepared to become the slaves of fanaticism any more than they are to monarchy—they love their Civil and Religious Liberty too well to be cajoled out of it by any 'Circular' you can transmit. As to the names you wish sent, thank God we have a number of good pious Christian preachers, who are not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, and they preach Christ Jesus and him crucified to sinners; but I confess I am greatly deceived in them if they would countenance your treasonable circular. Nay they glory in the freedom of our institutions, and manifest no disposition to do any thing that might subvert our Liberty—they are sober orderly men, and use their best endeavors to influence the will of their fellow men by convincing their judgment of the necessity of faith, hope, and charity, without caring anything about what may be called the immaterialities—they make no attempts at your fanatical, overrighteous zeal, to compel men to come in.'

See the amount—

For Bible Societies the sum of	$5 600
For Missionary Societies to Indians,	5 600
For Tract Societies,	5,600
For Temperance Societies,	5,600
For Sunday School Societies,	5 600
For Abolition societies,	5,600
For Emancipation societies,	5,600
For Colonization societies,	5,600
For Foreign Missionary societies,	5,600
For other societies of Deaf, Dumb Lame, Halt, Blind, Infant &c:	10,000
Total,	$66,000

Now gentlemen, you know these figures will not lie, however you may get out of this palpable fraud. That you may not find the Postmasters generally subservient to your object, I most sincerely hope.

I am gentlemen, your most unwavering opponent,

JOHN STEELE, P. M.

WASHINGTON CITY D. C.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1853

THE GENERAL POST OFFICE.

Having business in the city the present week, we called for the first time to see our new patrons at the Post Office Department,—but our 'help,' friend Sally afflicted with a fever, was scarcely able to attend us, and of course we had no opportunity to see the one half of them, and most of all we regret the absence of the Postmaster General, who is highly spoken of at home and abroad.

Col. Philips.

Col. P. if we recollect, is the Auditor of the Department. He is of middle age, and about six feet in height, with a remarkably stout portly figure, with the ease and grace of a gentleman. His face is partially oval, extremely fair and full, with features of perfect symmetry, and a slight carnation bloom, the very picture of health. His forehead is deep, composed and intelligent, denoting tranquility of mind. His brow perhaps never ruffled, bespeaks a mild temper, and seems to hold exclusive command over his countenance. His eye is blue of the medium size, mild, and serene as the sunny eve, and manifests at once benignity of heart and magnanimity of mind. His countenance, erudite, open and manly, has great expression—while that lofty independence and urbanity of manners for which Virginia gentlemen are distinguished—marks his manners and decorum. He is a native of Virginia, and was doubtless a judicious appointment.

Mr. Lynch.

Mr. L.—one of the new clerks, is a stout hearty looking Buckeye, in the very bloom of manhood. He is rather above the middle height, with a stout square figure of gigantic strength. Of his form however, we can say nothing of its shape or symmetry, as he kept that and his seat all to himself. His face is oval, of the middling shade, that is, what was clear of whiskers, (audacious fashion.) It would be difficult however, to find a rival for his noble eye and his undaunted forehead, which speaks for itself. His eye is a dark hazel, full and dazzling, and denotes sound sense and an unflinching independence. His countenance is open, and glowing with candour and good nature, and his manners are of the true Western stamp, plain and unwavering—Mr. Lynch is a native of Ohio.

Mr College.

Mr C. is likewise a young man, and from the same State. We are much pleased to find that the sons of Ohio have not all bent the knee to Baal. Mr. C. is highly endowed by nature and education, and has a striking appearance at first sight. He is about the common height and average size, with energy in his step and poetry in his eye. His face is round, well featured, and the smoothest we ever saw, [in this it is a remarkable] of the medium shade. His fine classic head and lofty broad forehead bespeaks him a man of no common mind. His eye is a dark hazel, becomingly full, clear, keen and steady, which unites with a serenity of countenance peculiar to him, and from its novelty and innocence imparts an unspeakable charm. His brow of the finest pencilling, is like no other—it just seems a bit of dark silk thrown loose upon the surface.

Mr Yulee.

We did see Mr Y. and that was all, he being called away before we had an opportunity to study his appearance. He is so much like his brother, Hon. Senator Yulee, from Mississippi: that who ever has seen the one may know the other with the exception that Mr Y. is the fairest. We merely glanced at his countenance as he saluted us, which beams with vivacity and good nature, and his charming dove eye would captivate a Nun.

Counsellor E. C. Carrington.

It must be generally known by this time, that this distinguished gentleman has taken up his residence in the city of Washington. We have been anxious to see Mr. C. ever since we heard he was in the city—we were acquainted with his ancestors on both sides, the Prestons and the Carringtons, Judge Carrington, his grandfather, was one of the most distinguished men in East Virginia, either for the elegance and beauty of his person or his attainments in the science of Law. His other grandfather, Col. Frank Preston, of West Virginia, allowed to be the richest man in the State, was likewise distinguished for his amiable character and uprightness.

But the flower of Mr. C.'s ancestors, was his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Preston, the daughter of General Campbell, the co-Hero of Gen. Green, at the battle of King's Mountain, in the revolution, which made the Britton turn their backs on the western country. Gen C. was one of the greatest patriots of the day in that war But all this may be found in the history of our country, The grand daughter of Gen. Campbell, viz: Miss Preston, married a son of Judge Carrington's and became the mother of our hero, and William C. Preston of South Carolina, is his mother's brother, of course his uncle. With the blood of his noble ancestry running in his veins, his high birth and education, with the many examples of eminence for which the Virginia bar has ever been distinguished before him—he must succeed:

Mr Carrington is in the prime of manhood, with a splendid figure, being some inches over six feet in height, with a form of the finest mould. His face is oval moderately full and fair—his features of best symmetry, and his open cheerful countenance have great expression. His soft blue eye beaming with genius and human kindness is one of the most captivating in nature, His hair is a dark brown, while his high classic forehead is placid, and bespeaks thought and capacity, while his benign brow, innocent and buoyant, denotes good nature and good temper. Success to him.

EDUCATION OF YOUNG MEN FOR THE MINISTRY.

We gave the amount both of money and labor, in our last paper signed by John Steele, which these 'pious' gentlemen exacted from the General Post Office—at that time it was enormous, taking the Circular referred to as our guide, and strange as it may seem the whole country was held in such awe of these tyrants, that not a Post Master, Contractor or stage driver dare to refuse: What can the people say in excuse for themselves, to encourage such villiany, and call it gospel.

To be Continued,

NEW PAPERS.

The Independent.

This is a political paper, published at Lasselle and Peru, Ill. weekly, at $2,50—it is a good size, and neatly printed, and goes for Free Soil.

Th Democratic Star.

This is a first rate paper, published weekly at Helena, Arkansas, by Messrs Cleveland & Watson, at $2 per annum in advance. It is of medium size, and contains everything that is good—the 'Fat Man' is inimitable.

But the little SCIOTO SUN excels. It is a darling paper, and must please every body. Its interesting stories and spicy anecdotes are honorable to the head and heart of its editor.

A Nut to Crack,—Mr Dump, has in order to encourage ingenuity, resolved on offering a handsome reward to any one a very handsome reward to any one who will pick his pockets so effectually as to get anything out of them. The learned gentleman states, fairly enough, that he has tried the experiment frequently on his own pocket, and has never yet succeeded; but that if any one else should prove more fortunate, he will be most happy to share the produce with the lucky individual. The professional pick pockets have, it is understood, long ago abandoned the task, so that amateurs have now a fair opportunity.

☞'Pappy can't I go to the zoological rooms, to see the camomile fight the rhinocercow?'

'Sartain my son—but don't get your trowsers torn: Strange my dear, what a taste that boy has got for natural history, isnt it!' No longer ago than yesterday, he had eight pairs of tom cats hung by their tails over the clothes line!'

COURTING IN RIGHT STYLE.

'Get out, you nasty puppy—let me alone or I'll tell your ma!' exclaimed Sally to her lover, Jake, who sat about ten feet from her pulling dirt out of the jam.

'I aint techin' you Sal,' responded Jake.

'Well perhaps you don't mean to, nuther: do yer?'

'No I don't.'

''Cause why, you're so tarnal scary, you long-legged, lantern-jawed, slab-sided pigeontoed, gander-kneed owl, you hain't got a tarnal bit o' sense, get along home with you:'

'Now Sal, I love you and I can't help it, and ef you don't let me stay and court you, my daddy will sue yourn for that cow he sold him t'other day. By jingo, he said he'd do it.'

'Well look here Jake, if you want to court me you'd better do it as a white man does that thing—not set off there as if you thort I was pison.'

'How on airth is that Sal?'

'Why sidel right up here and hug and kiss me as if you really had some of the bone and sinew of a man about you. Do you s'pose a woman's only made to look at you fool you. No, they're made for 'practical results,' as Kossuth says—to hug and kiss and sich like.'

'Well,' said Jake, drawing a long breath, 'If I must I must, for I do love you Sal,' and so Jake commenced sidling up to her like a male porker going to battle. Laying his arm gently upon Sal's shoulder, we thought we heard Sal say—

'Now you begin to please me old hoss, that's acting like a white man orter.'

'Oh Jerusalem and pan cakes!' exclaimed Jake, 'if this aint better than any apple sass that ever marm made a darn sight! Oh, crackee!—buckwheat cakes, flap jacks and 'lasses aint no whar long side of you Sal—oh; how I love you!'

Here their lips came together, and the report that followed, was like the pulling of a horse's hoof out of the mire;

FURTHER NEWS BY THE EUROPA.

FRANCE.

The Frenchman arrested on a charge of offering to assassinate the Emperor Napoleon, has been tried and acquainted.

A number of Ribbon men have been arrested in France.

The French news is entirely concentrated on reports of the grand fete of the 15th. A review of thousands of men, tournaments, a passage at arms between French and English knights on the field of the Cloth of Gold, balloon ascents, processions, boat races, &c., took place. High mass was celebrated, and the proceedings wound up with a brilliant display of fireworks, and an unlimited supply of bread and vin ordinaire to the poor at a total expenditure of three fourth of a million of francs. The weather was very favorable for this joint festival of Napoleon and the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Mr. Sandford appeared at the Emperor's soiree in citizen's dress.

The duties on bitumen are abolished. Propositis to grant 8,000,000 francs to pay the legacies of Napoleon I. will probably be carried.

The Government inclines to the purchase of the Patrie newspaper.

Trade in Paris was active, owing to the visiters to the fete, and to orders from Australia.

Reliable accounts say that it will be necessary to import only one month's consumption, say ten million hectr. of wheat.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

A despatch from Jassy, dated the 3d inst. says that the Divan was convoked, and the Hospoaars solicited to remain. The Czar gave them permission to go to Constantinople or to remain unmolested in the provinces.

AUSTRALIA.

Redschid Pacha has notified Austria that any occupation of Servia by the Austrian troops would be regarded as a declaration of war. In the meantime the Porte undertakes to preserve order in the Province.

The Official Journal, Austria, of the 17th, contains a decree discontinuing the state of siege of Vienna and Prague.

AWAY WITH CARE.

Away, away with sighs and tears,
Away with care and sorrow;
The storm that wrecks our hopes to day
May bury grief to morrow!

It is not meet that man should mourn,
Amid this world of toiling,
For he who looks in Nature's face
Will always find her smiling.

Earth yields to us her golden gems,
There's naught around us tearful,
And rose and violet strew our path,
To make us blest and cheerful.

'Tis true, Old Winter will return,
To show his different phases,
But spring we know, will come at last,
To strew the fields with daisies.

And thus, when life is ended here,
A hope to us is given,
A promise of a brighter land
A happy home in Heaven!

PROSPECTUS FOR 1853

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY

Over Thirty-one years have elapsed since the Saturday Evening Post began its weekly round of blended instruction and amusement: and never, in all that period, was its success so marked as at the present moment. Possessing undeniably the largest circulation, by many thousands, of any paper of its class in the Union, its subscribers have the best of reasons for believing that it stands upon a permanent basis, and that they will receive the full value of every dollar intrusted to its publishers. In announcing some of our preparations for the coming year, we may begin by stating our continued connection with Mrs. Southworth, a writer who, in vigor and fertility of genius, is not surpassed by any, male or female, in the Union. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, a lady whom it would be almost superfluous to praise, in view of the general popularity of such tales as 'The Mob Cap,' 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc also is enrolled among our contributors

We shall shortly begin the publication of a story entitled

CLARA MORELAND

By Emerson Bennett, author of 'Viola,' 'Prairie Flower,' 'Bandits of the Osage,' etc. And at the opening of the ensuing year we design commencing the publication of the following Novelet,

MISS THUSA'S SPINNING-WHEEL,

By Mrs. Lee Hentz, of Florida, author of 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc

This novelet we design following by a story entitled,

A STRAY PATCH FROM AUNT HANNAH'S QUILT.

By Mrs. Frances D. Gage, of Ohio, widely known as the author of some admirably written and very effective household poems, sketches, etc. After this we expect to be able to commence

THE LOST HEIRESS:

A STORY OF HOWLET HALL.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, author of 'The Curse of Clifton,' 'Virginia and Magdalene,' 'Shannondale,' the Deserted Wife,

In addition to these and other Original tales, involving a large expenditure of money we shall lay before our readers as heretofore choice tales, sketches, essays, narratives, etc. from the English magazines, such as have given the Post a name for the excellence of its selections,

Engravings—In the way of engravings we present at least two weekly, one of an instructive and the other of a humorous character,

☞ Of course we shall maintain for the Post the character it has acquired of being a strictly moral paper, not ridiculously squeamish and straight laced, but really and truly moral; such as may be taken into the family circle without fear. Advertisements of an improper character shall be as heretofore, rigorously excluded.

CHEAP POSTAGE.

The postage on the Post to any part of the United States, when paid quarterly in advance, is now only 26 cents a year. And we trust that the public generally will show their appreciation of this commendable reduction of postage, by largely increasing the number of papers taken at the various offices—that thus there may be no falling off in the revenue of the Post office department. This will insure a continuance of the present reduced rates.

TERMS.

The terms of the Post are Two Dollars if paid in advance, 3,00, if not paid in advance. For five dollars in advance, one copy will be sent three years. We continue the following low terms for Clubs—to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one Post Office:

DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING ELIXIR OR CORDIAL;

Cure of Nervous Diseases

No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the diseased, debilitated, and shattered nervous system. Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once retraced, revivified, and built up. The mental and physical symptoms of nervous disease vanish together under its influence. The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man. He stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom, or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright, buoyant, active; and he goes forth refreshed, regenerated, and conscious of new vigor, to his accustomed occupations. Nor is the effect temporary. On the contrary, the relief is permanent, for the cordial properties of the medicine reach the constitution itself, and restore it to its normal condition. Well may the preparation be called the MEDICINAL WONDER of the nineteenth century. It is, as the first scientific men in the old world have admitted, that miracle of medicine heretofore supposed to have no existence.

Its force is never expended, as is the case with opium, alcoholic preparations, and all other excitants. The effect of these is brief, and it may well be said of him who takes them 'the last state of that man is worse than the first.' But the Elixir is an exhilarant without a single drawback, safe in its operation perpetual in its happy influence upon the nerves, the mind, and the entire system. In cases of neuralgia, headache, loss of memory, hypochondriasis, dyspepsia, general prostration, irritability, nervousness, inability to sleep, liver complaint, and all diseases incident to females, hysteria, monomania, vague terrors, palpitation of the heart, impotency, barrenness, constipation, etc., from whatever cause arising, it is if there is any reliance to be placed on human testimony, absolutely infallible.

It is the only infallible remedy yet discovered for Nervous, Head, and Mind Complaints; it is the mental physic long sought for, and never before found, the only natural agent that can administer to a mind diseased. It will increase and restore the appetite, strengthen the emaciated, renew the health of those who have destroyed it, induce continual cheerfulness and equanimity of spirits, and prolong life.

Persons of pale complexion or consumptive habits are restored by the use of a bottle or two to bloom and vigor, changing the skin from a pale yellow, sickly color to a beautiful florid complexion.

The common expression of those who have used this extract is—I have heard your Cordial highly spoken of but was one of the incredulous in regard to its merit, having tried various medicines sold for the same purpose without deriving any benefit. I had almost given up all hopes of deriving any relief, and when I purchased some of your Cordial I had no faith whatever of its benefiting me, but it has.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1853

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY

Over Thirty-one years have elapsed since the Saturday Evening Post began its weekly round of blended instruction and amusement: and never, in all that period, was its success so marked as at the present moment. Possessing undeniably the largest circulation, by many thousands, of any paper of its class in the Union, its subscribers have the best of reasons for believing that it stands upon a permanent basis, and that they will receive the full value of every dollar intrusted to its publishers. In announcing some of our preparations for the coming year, we may begin by stating our continued connection with Mrs. Southworth, a writer who, in vigor and fertility of genius, is not surpassed by any, male or female, in the Union. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, a lady whom it would be almost superfluous to praise, in view of the general popularity of such tales as 'The Mob Cap,' 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc. also is enrolled among our contributors

We shall shortly begin the publication of a story entitled

CLARA MORELAND

By Emerson Bennett, author of 'Viola,' 'Prairie Flower,' 'Bandits of the Osage,' etc. And at the opening of the ensuing year we design commencing the publication of the following Novelet,

MISS THUSA'S SPINNING-WHEEL,

By Mrs. Lee Hentz, of Florida, author of 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc

This novelet we design following by a story entitled,

A STRAY PATCH FROM AUNT HANNAH'S QUILT.

THE LOST HEIRESS:

A STORY OF HOWLET HALL.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, author of 'The Curse of Clifton,' 'Virginia and Magdalene,' 'Shannondale,' the Deserted Wife.

In addition to these and other Original tales, involving a large expenditure of money we shall lay before our readers as heretofore choice tales, sketches, essays, narratives, etc. from the English magazines, such as have given the Post a name for the excellence of its selections,

Engravings—In the way of engravings we present at least two weekly, one of an instructive and the other of a humorous character,

☞ Of course we shall maintain for the Post the character it has acquired of being a strictly moral paper, not ridiculously squeamish and straight-laced, but really and truly moral; such as may be taken into the family circle without fear. Advertisements of an improper character shall be, as heretofore, rigorously excluded.
